

---

Pine of an Apple (Poem)

Dr. Nasreen Banu Jamadar (jmnasreen@gmail.com)

Asst. Professor, Department of English, GFGC, Naregal, Karnataka, India

---

Introduction

We can say it is part of human psychology that they run after their desires. We expect and these make us to depend on the people whom we love too. And we realize these things when we go far away from them the fragile feelings long to get them back but between heart and mind we take decision from by thinking losing the hangover to fulfill the wishes.

1

PINE OF AN APPLE

It's a human nature

We always run

behind things that we can't have.

When we usually depend on things and people for happiness, we get attach to them.

When they go far from us,

we crave, why?

The heart wants what it wants.

But the brain is stronger.

---

ABOUT THE POET

Dr. Nasreen Banu Jamadar is an Assistant Professor in the Department of English, with concentration in Gender Studies, Comparative Studies, Postcolonial Studies, Diaspora Writings, Indian English Writings, and Research Methodology at GFGC Naregal dist: Gadag affiliated: Karnataka University Dharwad. She is interested in research/teaching in Contemporary Literature and theories. Her sole contribution include books entitled: 1. Fiction of Taslima Nasrin: A Study in Feminism. 2 . Contemporary Women Writers: New Perspectives. She has widely published in reputed journals, and currently working on Taslima Nasrin's poetic collection.